

Vix Technology Appoints David Maitland as Chief Operating Officer
Industry leader joins Vix to lead client services and operations globally

January 23, 2020, CAMBRIDGE - Vix Technology, a global leader in transport ticketing and payment solutions, today announced the appointment of industry executive David Maitland as Chief Operating Officer (COO). Tasked with delivering best-in-class service and continued innovation for Vix Technology's global customer base, David will lead operations activities from the Cambridge, UK office.

David has an extensive background in transit retailing and operations, having worked for transit operators and service providers that supply to our industry. He most recently served as CEO North America of Scheidt and Bachmann, running the U.S. and Canadian operations.

Prior to this, David worked for Go Ahead Group plc, delivering programmes around account based ticketing on rail and EMV payments on buses and led the development of On Track Retail, Go Ahead's highly successful web retailing business.

He also set up Hammock, Go Ahead's retail services division, providing operational and consulting services to clients including WMCA, DfT, Keolis and Transport for Wales.
